

West Essex High School junior Timothy Ruszala, left, and senior Brian Gieger have been selected to perform in the New Jersey All-State Band. Gieger, who plays the tuba, will perform in the All-State Symphonic Band and plans to study music education in college next year. Ruszala, a bassoonist, will perform with the All-State Wind Ensemble and received the highest score overall for his instrument. This is the second consecutive year that both students have made the All-State Band. West Essex High School Band Director John Scozzaro said it is very tough to make the New Jersey All-State Band and the fact that they both have made it for two consecutive years just goes to show how hard they have worked. Scozzaro said the students truly exemplify what it means to be great musicians and leaders.
